Sippican Historical Society Honors Bird Island

By Katy Fitzpatrick

Since 1819, it has been the prominent structure you first see when you enter Sippican Harbor. The Bird Island Lighthouse guided ships for 114 years until 1933. To this day, boaters and residents can still see it.

Given its longevity, there is no doubting the amount of history and the stories to be told about the structure. The Sippican Historical Society is inviting the public to check out their newest exhibit, which highlights several artifacts and paintings of Bird Island.

"We were looking for things we had history on to make a full exhibit," said Curator Pete Smith. "With this particular lighthouse, we had a lot of stuff on it. We filled the entire room with it."

When the lighthouse was originally constructed in the 1800s, it was built upon a five-acre plot of land,

Above: Bird Island is a familiar sight to many Marion residents, but how much do they really know about its rich history? The Sippican Historical Society is running an exhibit throughout the year that highlights and celebrates the history of Bird Island, featuring photographs, old vessel logs, garments and other antiques for locals to enjoy. The exhibit is free. Photos by Katy Fitzpatrick.

Smith said. The light keeper's house as well as a boathouse accompanied it. However, due to erosion from hurricanes and other storms, the land has withered away to one acre of land. The lighthouse remains the only structure intact on the island today after the hurricane of 1938 ravaged the rest of the buildings.

"They have relit the lighthouse, but I don't think in today's world with the navigation and radar, it is what it used to be," said Smith, who is a lifelong Marion resident and has been collecting historical items for the past 50 years.

While the lighthouse might not be used in the same capacity it was a century ago, Sippican Historical Society gives the perfect glimpse into its significance through its 27 pieces. All of the parts of the exhibit have been donated by residents or have come from the federal government.

In addition to photographs and newspaper articles, there are also light keeper logs, vessel journals, souvenir Bird Island China, a brass bell used to alert ships in the harbor of emergencies, and even original garments worn by the light keeper.

"I think you have to have an interest in history and in your hometown," said Smith. "I like Marion and I like its history."

The Bird Island exhibit can be seen all throughout the year at the Sippican Historical Society's Museum located on Front Street next to the Post Office. Admission

Science and Community Service Converge

By Eric Tripoli

Back in 2012, Sippican Elementary School sixth-grader Julia Winters was in Vermont with her mother, Christine, when they decided to stop at the King Arthur Flour company. The younger Winters, who has a budding passion for cooking and baking, was interested to see the home base of a familiar brand.

"They have a store and a mini-kitchen where they show you how to make certain foods," she said.

Weeks later, her mother was surfing around the company's website and found a special program that combined education with community outreach.

The "King Arthur Flour Life Skills Bread Baking Program" seeks to teach young students about the inner workings behind baking bread and it gives them the tools to help their communities with their newfound knowledge.

"We thought it'd be a nice way to show the kids at Sippican School the science behind bread," said Julia, who also has a food blog dedicated to her culinary experiments.

Her mother, who is on the Marion School Committee, decided to help float the idea to the school's administration and broached it to the Sippican School principal, Evelyn Rivet.

"During the summer, we sent emails out to people like [ORR Junior High Principal] Kevin Brogioli and [Assistant Superintendent] Dr. Elise Frangos. Mrs. Frangos investigated further and found that there was a community service aspect to the project," said Rivet.

Here is how the program works. Representatives from the flour company hold a special assembly for the students, where they learn about the bread-making process, including the chemical reactions associated with the use of yeast. At the end of the assembly, the students are given two bread-making kits with all of the ingredients. They bake one loaf for their family and one loaf to be distributed to a community outreach service chosen by the school.

There was one catch: Sippican School didn't meet the minimum number of required students in order for the program.

"We managed to get other schools involved, so students from Sippican School, ORR Junior High, Old Hammondtown and Rochester Memorial School will all be baking bread," said Rivet.

"I'm very excited for it because it's learning and it's helping others. It's like two-in-one," said Winters.

All told, about 900 students across five grades will be taking part in the baking activity. The donated loaves will be distributed to four South Coast community groups: the Marion Council on Aging, Friendship Table, Mercy Meals & More, and PACE.

"This is an amazing project," said Rivet. "It's a wonderful way to connect education and community outreach. It involves science and math but has such a far-reaching effect."

The assembly will be held at Sippican School on January 10, where Winters herself will be assisting the flour company representatives in their presentation. The students will then receive their kits to be baked that weekend for distribution on January 14.

The plunge was organized by Michelle and William Huggins of Mattapoisett. Will was diagnosed with colon cancer several years ago and recovered. Then he discovered his cancer had returned to his colon and spread to his liver. After several surgeries, lengthy chemo treatments and a host of examinations, Huggins is cancer-free and on the mend.

During his treatments, the Huggins family benefited from a financial donation made by the New Bedford non-profit, BAM Foundation, which was founded by cancer survivor and Huggins family friend, Alycia Halle.

"I had breast cancer. I wanted to help people with unexpected expenses," said Halle. "There are a lot more out-of-pocket expenses than people realize. The money we provide goes toward gas; it goes toward daycare or food."

The New Year plunge, "Freezin' For A Reason," was a way to pay the favor forward, Huggins-style.

"I think it far exceeded our expectations," said Michelle. "It feels like humanity elevated. People are good and they usually want to help, but sometimes don't know how. This is an easy way to pay it forward."

Hundreds of people attended the plunge, with almost 100 diving in, some in costumes and masks. Seven local businesses made various donations to the plunge, from food to heaters to the tent. A donation bucket was

Will, a Mattapoisett native and ORR graduate, was overwhelmed by the turnout and the spirit of the community around him.

"It gives me goose bumps," said Huggins. "This really woke me up to a new aspect of life. My wife and I decided to make this part of our mission now. This is a really special community. This is my home. It's amazing, that's all I can say."

Huggins plans on making the New Year plunge an annual event, citing the strong show of support from the community and his desire to help the BAM

Town Hall Repairs Well Underway

Rochester Board of Selectmen

By Katy Fitzpatrick

Repairs to the Rochester Town Hall are well underway. The project, which was approved at the Fall Town Meeting in November, is currently in its first phase. Town Administrator Richard LaCamera updated the Board on the project's status during their regular meeting on Monday, January 7.

"The project is moving along very well," said LaCamera. "Everything is going good."

The first phase of the project includes replacing the shingles on the roof. It should be finished by end of the week, LaCamera said, thanks largely in part to the cooperative weather.

The second phase of repairs will include replacing the windows and the siding on the building.

In other news, Grant King from SRPEDD briefed the Selectmen on a public workshop that will be held in the coming weeks. The workshop will inform all interested citizens on how they can change the priority protection and development areas outlined on the map that was established five years ago.

"This is just a courtesy call," said King.

Every five years, a representative from SRPEDD visits its 27 communities in order to update their maps. Once the workshop is held, the town will have a chance to change the maps to honor which lands they would like to be protected and which to be developed. After the workshop, a new map will be drafted for the Selectmen to endorse.

"We're hoping to have as many people participate as possible," said King.

Town Clerk Naida Parker announced that both nomination papers for the upcoming election and dog licenses for 2013 are available at Town Hall to be picked up.

Marion Faces Unemployment Claim, New Hospital Agreement

Marion Board of Selectmen

By Anne Smith

The Marion Board of Selectmen was dismayed by news that the Town of Marion may have to uphold an unemployment claim as well as take on the malpractice insurance for the affiliate hospital's medical director. Town Administrator Paul Dawson opened both topics for discussion at the Board's regular meeting on Tuesday, January 8.

Dawson told the Selectmen that he was not asking for them to take any actions yet, since both matters require more research and legal counsel.

In the first matter, Dawson said that an unemployment claim has been made against the town by an individual who resigned back in December of 2011 before taking a job elsewhere.

"This person voluntarily left. We didn't ask them to leave; they were a good employee," Dawson said.

However, the individual is no longer employed at what Dawson referred to as the "greener pastures" job and has therefore filed for unemployment benefits. Because the Town of Marion is a reimbursement community, there is a legal loophole, which requires Marion taxpayers to use their unemployment line item for this individual.

Neither the Selectmen nor the Town Administrator found this acceptable.

"I'm going to continue to work with Representative Bill Straus's office," Dawson said. "I'm drumming up awareness to what I feel is a really unfair and glaring loophole ... the bigger problem needs to be addressed at the state level."

In the second matter, which Dawson described as "in the same vein, but not really," the Town of Marion is facing a new EMS hospital affiliation agreement. Dawson has received the new agreement, which, reportedly, the Southcoast Hospitals Group would like to renew each year. Dawson said that he was immediately alarmed by some of the language in the contract.

The contract, he explained, would require the Town of Marion to list the affiliate hospital's medical director under their insurance policy for malpractice. This medical director is responsible for the EMTs and paramedics servicing the town, who work under the director's license.

"That's an enormous liability and an enormous cost," Dawson said.

The contract is also unprecedented. The town employs its own physician as a medical director, for example, but does not pay for the malpractice insurance. In the contract presented by the Southcoast Hospitals Group, the town would pay for the malpractice insurance of a medical director who is not employed by the town. Furthermore, the contract is only for Tobey Hospital. The Selectmen do not know if they will be asked to do the same for the medical director at St. Luke's Hospital, to where the ambulances sometimes take patients.

Dawson said that the Town of Marion is not alone, however. He has spoken with the administrators for other troubled towns that have also been recipients of contracts from the Southcoast Hospitals Group, which contain similar language. Dawson is not sure if other hospitals are presenting similar contracts to their affiliated towns.

"There's language in [the contract] that's just wrong," Dawson said. "We really need to negotiate it."

Dawson has forward the contract to Jon Witten, the Town Counsel, for review. The town's insurance company has also seen the contract, by which they are troubled, although Dawson is awaiting their formal comments.

Dawson did not want to extend the conversations about either the unemployment claim or the hospital affiliation agreement until he has finished conversing with his colleagues, legal counsel and the insurance company. He will approach the Board of Selectmen to hold an executive session once he has received replies, in which he hopes to fully inform the Board as to the nature of both

Animal Advice Jay Gould, DVM

I got a new puppy. How do I housebreak him?

Congratulations! Hopefully he will bring you many smiles and much love. In the meantime set up a schedule to get him outside about every hour or so at first. Go outdoors with him and praise him when he does his business. If you catch him in the act of going to the bathroom indoors let him know with words that it's not good. If you find a puddle or pile, just clean it up, no good comes from punishing him at that point. Puppies tend to poop within a few minutes of eating, so 3-4 meals a day will hopefully set up a schedule of successful outdoor visits. Using a crate at night that is just a bit bigger than your puppy may discourage bathroom activity until morning.

situations. This executive session will be critical for the hospital affiliation agreement, which the Selectmen intend to negotiate.

In other business, the Board carried a motion to make eight appointments, seven to the Fireworks Committee and one to the Marion Affordable Housing Trust. Selectman Jonathan Dickerson reported that the Fireworks Committee has already seen a good response to their fundraising efforts.

The Board also voted to approve that Marion Social Club's request for a one-day all-alcohol license for their clam boil on Sunday, January 27 from 12:00 to 4:00 pm.

Lastly, the Board approved Copper Medal, LLC's request for revision of sewer allocation. Copper Medal, LLC had gone before the Marion Planning Board on Monday, January 7 to rescind a definitive subdivision plan and to seek approval for an ANR plan, which would combine a different pair of lots.

"We would like to have [sewer] service for eight bedrooms on one lot and five bedrooms on the other," said Richard Schaefer, the representative for Copper Medal, LLC. "We would like to reduce the capacity from 15 to 13. The other [sewer stump] would be deactivated."

Selectmen Jonathan Henry and Stephen Cushing voiced their approval of Schaefer's handling of the project.

"Certainly with the frontage is a better deal," Selectman Henry said. "It's much more classic and generally what we try to do here."

He recommended that Schaefer mark the third sewage stump as deactivated and not to pull up anything.

"All you're doing is creating the potential for something to go wrong," Selectman Cushing agreed.

The Board voted to approve the sewer allocation revision as per the recommendations of Robert Zora, DPW Superintendent.

Lastly, Dawson informed the Board that a claim has been filed with the town's insurance company for damage to the harbormaster's vessel that happened back in August during the rescue of a stranded vessel. After the rescue, the harbormaster noticed that the outboard engine was making a knocking sound on the starboard side. Because it was the end of the boating season and the weather turned foul with Hurricane Sandy, no action was taken to repair the outboard. On December 20, however, it was discovered that the outboard motor had broken teeth on its lower gears.

"We believe that it happened at that time [August] due to the wave jumping action during the rescue," Dawson said.

The cost to repair the outboard engine is estimate between $2,500 and $3,000. Dawson is currently working with the insurance company to organize the vessel's repair.

The Marion Board of Selectmen will meet again on Tuesday, January 22 at 7:00 pm at the Marion Town House.

Mattapoisett Could Face Water Restrictions

Mattapoisett Board of Selectmen

By Katy Fitzpatrick

Mattapoisett could see restrictions on their water usage in the year 2015 if the state passes a new law requiring towns to file for a permit regulating their water usage. The issue was discussed at the Mattapoisett Board of Selectmen's regular meeting on Tuesday, January 8 in Mattapoisett Town Hall.

"What we're dealing with here is something that all communities are going to deal with," said Patrick O'Neale, Vice President of Tata & Howard Water and Wastewater Consultants. "Conservation efforts will be pretty extreme."

Mattapoisett currently has two permitted wells, which means the wells draw more than 100,000 gallons per day. By law, each well in a town drawing more than that needs to be permitted. Mattapoisett signed a 20-year contract under these conditions, which expired in 2011. However, the state passed a permit extension act, which gives towns until 2015 to file for permitting.

O'Neale has been working with the Mattapoissett Sewer Commission in order to research and best prepare for the conservation efforts. The Commission's main concern is that the state is so concerned with environmental preservation that there is little to no science in their research showing that water limitations would improve each community.

Under the new permits, the state would regulate the amount of water regulated according to each town's baseline usage. If the town surpasses the baseline usage, certain mitigation solutions would be implemented to control the water amount. Proposed solutions are droughts and increased billing statements so residents can monitor their water usage.

Massachusetts Water Works, however, is working in conjunction with towns across the state to research how much water is being used and to come up with a figure that would be acceptable. The idea is to have this figure into place long before the 2015 deadline in order to make sure the towns are well-informed of the reality of their water needs versus that which the state hopes to regulate.

In addition to concerns that the new permit would not provide enough water for the towns, they are worried what will happen when the population in town increases in the summer. Also, the Commission is concerned that the regulations could increase water rates.

"It's certainly something I never thought I would be seeing," said Sewer Commissioner William Nicholson. "You want to sell as much water as you can. They're kind of holding our hands and making it more difficult. You will be billing out less and rates will increase."

The Board commended the Commission for getting a head start on their research for this matter. They hope to amend current water conservation bylaws at the Spring Town Meeting in 2014 when they receive more results of the Commission's research.

"I think we just need to do more talking about this so more people are aware that this is going to happen," said Nicholson.

In other news, the Board agreed to write a letter to N-Star upon the request of resident John Folino which would ask them to send crews out and survey how much it would cost to convert properties south of Route 6 along the water to natural gas.

According to Folino, when a hurricane hits, it can cause damage to propane tanks, oftentimes making them float and therefore causing spills. The owner of that propane tank is liable and could incur damage charges as a result of the spills. He suggested to the Board to look into natural gas because it would be less of a liability for the properties along the water and it is also cheaper than the other energy alternatives.

The Board saw no problem in researching what it would cost to install natural gas lines. However, Highway Supervisor Barry Denham was concerned that it could cause problems with the plans to repave Mattapoisett Neck Road.

"That is one of the biggest tear-ups of roadways," said Denham. "We have a number of mains that need to be renewed. They have a lot of old stuff in the ground that needs to be upgraded and I'd hate to see them get on an installation kick for new stuff and neglect some of the old stuff."

The Board agreed to write the letter keeping in mind the current plans to repave the roads.

Town Administrator Michael Gagne informed the Board that Plymouth County will be eligible for

Board Approves Solar Array Plan

Rochester Planning Board

By Eric Tripoli

After months of paperwork and public hearings, the Rochester Planning Board voted in favor of the site plan for the proposed Little Quittacas solar panel array. The array would collect electricity that would be used by the City of New Bedford to offset costs to the city's water treatment facilities.

At the last Planning Board meeting on December 11, all parties involved were awaiting the final comments of the peer review study conducted by Field Engineering.

"We were awaiting a comment letter back from Field Engineering, which I understand has been submitted to the town. It appears to indicate that Field Engineering concurs with the comments made and in the submissions to the town," said Sam Moffett of TRC Engineering, the firm charged with creating the array.

The array would be located off North Avenue and would require clearing of trees, minor leveling of the land, and construction of an earthen berm abutting a nearby neighborhood to mask the construction and offer visual protection for the residents.

The Town of Rochester will also require collection of a performance bond for the maintenance of proposed vegetation to be planted along the berm. If the plant life survives beyond two growing seasons, the Town would return the money to the engineers.

The Planning Board voted unanimously in favor of the plan after closing the public hearing.

In other business, the Planning Board held a continued discussion with Tim Higgins regarding the installation of a mail kiosk at the Connet Woods subdivision. Such central delivery areas for mail have been popping up more often in the last few years due to changes in delivery service stemming from the budget issues that have plagued the United States Postal Service.

Higgins brought with him a construction plan for the kiosk.

"We would need about three parking spaces, which would be approximately 600 square feet of pavement. The building would be about five foot by 11 feet," said Higgins.

The kiosk would be built on a drainage lot as a conservation restriction prohibits development over most of the area.

At their last meeting, Planning Board Chairman Arnold Johnson was in favor of the proposal, but was not satisfied that the design Higgins presented would provide enough space for parking or safety for pedestrians.

"I don't think the police chief would be in favor of this particular design, either," Johnson said. With the current proposal, cars would have to reverse into the traffic flow of Ryder Road.

"We don't have the option of building another road system for this project. That's an awful lot of time and an awful lot of money for a mail kiosk," said Higgins.

Johnson suggested the main access point for the kiosk should be near Box Turtle Drive for ease of vehicular and pedestrian traffic flow.

Board member Ben Bailey said traffic worries were overblown because of the low population density of the area.

"Not everybody is going to get their mail at the same time. There's only 18 addresses there," Bailey said.

Higgins said he will continue to work on a more agreeable design for the kiosk and the layout for the surrounding area.

The next meeting of the Rochester Planning Board will be held on Tuesday, January 22 at 7:00 pm at the Town Hall.

Deer Woods Plan Might Change

Mattapoisett Planning Board

By Eric Tripoli

David Nicolosi was back before the Mattapoisett Planning Board on Monday, January 7 seeking guidance for his plan to create a development off Deerfield Road.

In previous meetings, Nicolosi presented a proposal for a series of estate-style lots spread out over Lots #33, 34 and 42B on the Assessor's maps. That plan would call for the construction of about 10 houses in the area.

Nicolosi came to the Board with a new plan that would reduce each lot size and increase the number of houses built in the subdivision.

The new plan would allow four estate lots while maximizing the density for the rest of the property by building several multi-family homes.

"It would be similar to a townhouse or a quad.
They would be rentals," he said.

Nicolosi has been investigating different possibilities for development of the land for the last few months. His first plan also included about 30 acres of conservation land near the center of the property, prohibiting development there. Cost of development has caused him to consider options other than what he originally proposed.

Nicolosi requested the Board table discussion of his first estate-lot plan so that he could focus on developing his new plan that includes construction of multi-family homes.

In other business, the Board gave its blessing for a Form A application filed by Anthony and Karen Almeida and Gail and Peter Elen. The applicants were seeking to make minor changes in the delineations to their properties at 1 and 3 Ocean Drive, respectively.

The Board also held a site plan review for an application regarding the construction of a storage facility on Marion Road.

"There will be no plumbing and only minimal electrical running to it," said engineer Doug Schneider.
The storage facility will have 40 units, each measuring 10 feet by 10 feet.

The Board was amenable to the plan but member John Mathieu expressed his concern over adequate space for the movement of fire trucks in the event of an emergency.

"I'd also like to know for sure that this is approved use," Mathieu said, who requested formal authorization from the Building Department and Fire
Chief Murray regarding use and space of the area.

As a result, the hearing was continued until the Planning Board's next meeting on Monday, February 4.
There will be no meeting on Monday, January 21 due to the observance of Dr. Martin Luther King Day.

Subdivision Rescinded, Replaced with ANR Plan

Marion Planning Board

By Anne Smith

The Marion Planning Board held a public hearing for Copper Medal, LLC at their regular meeting on Monday, January 7. The subject of the hearing was the rescission of a definitive subdivision plan that had been approved by the Board on July 20, 2009.

Dave Davignon, the representative of Copper Medal, LLC, the developer, explained that there were originally six lots. One, which did not appear on the map used in his presentation, had been sold. Of the remaining five lots, one had been divided into two. This subdivision was the focus of the hearing.

In the 2009 subdivision plan, two lots were created from a seven-acre parcel of land. A road, to be called Sea Haven Lane, and a drainage area were to be constructed before houses could be built on the lots. However, the lots were never sold; neither was the road nor the drainage area constructed, Davignon said.

"The purpose for Sea Haven Lane was to construct frontage for a secondary lot from that seven-acre lot," Davignon said. "By eliminating the roadway, we would have sufficient frontage along Converse Road. It's more a procedural thing than anything else this evening."

Only two abutters were present at the public hearing, one of whom represented the Sippican Lands Trust. Both asked the Planning Board for clarification of what Davignon was requesting the Board for that evening. Their concerns were largely about potential development on the land, such as where on the lots any houses could be built, and where the wetlands were delineated. The abutters were informed that the Board only was concerned with, at the moment, the rescission of the definitive subdivision plan and, after the conclusion of the public hearing, the submittal of an ANR application for some of the lots.

The Board unanimously voted to rescind the 2009 definitive subdivision plan and closed the hearing.

Next, the Board heard the ANR application from Davignon on behalf of Copper Medal, LLC. The ANR plan would combine two of the five lots which the developer still owns.

"We're consolidating two of the three lots to the south [of the lot that had been previously subdivided]," Davignon said. "The purpose of the ANR is to reconfigure those five lots and consolidate them to four. The middle lot, nearly eight acres, would be purchased by a buyer looking to build a single-family home."

The Board unanimously voted to approve the ANR plan, although it will be held by the Board until the end of the 20-day appeal period for the rescission of the definitive subdivision plan.

Davignon informed the Board that, in about a month, he would most likely return with an application for a special permit to construct an association pier.

In its other business, Chairman Jay Ryder read an excerpt from a letter addressed to the Marion Board of Selectmen, in which the Town of Marion was recognized as being in the top three municipalities in the annual town report contest. The award was of little surprise to Ryder.

"There's a lot of information in [the report] and it's very well organized," he said. "I love writing the Planning Board summary for it."

The next meeting of the Marion Planning Board will be held on Tuesday, January 22 at 5:00 pm in the Marion Police Station Community Room.

Unusable Field at RMS Sparks Discussion

Rochester School Committee

By Joan Hartnett-Barry

Emotions ran high at the Rochester School Committee meeting on Thursday over the inability to use a large backfield for recess at Rochester Memorial Elementary School.

"How long do we have to wait to use the field ... our priority is to provide physical activity along with education for our students," asked Sharon Hartley, a Committee member. "It's not appropriate for a renovation ... it's not the norm and it isn't fair that the grounds are not ready after two years."

Other members also expressed frustration when Facilities Director Gene Jones explained that the field would not be available to students until December of 2013 due to the warranty issues in the contract for the renovation project. The fields, grounds and trees are the final piece of the renovation project.

At issue are warranty items that have not been settled with Mountain View, the sub-contractor handling that portion of the contract. Gilbane Builders was the manager of the project and used Mountain View for the grounds-handling portion of the project.

Jones explained that he was on top of the situation and has spent many hours inspecting the fields, trees and grounds work around the school.

"The backfield is patches of sand, blotches of non-grass ... we have to give Mountain View the opportunity to fix it ... that's in the contract," said Jones.

"Is there a termination clause in the contract, so we can withhold payment and work on it ourselves?" asked Committee member Tina Rood.

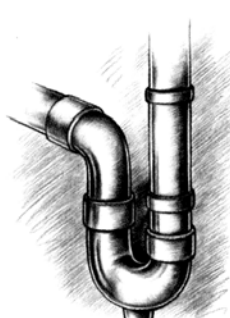

Jones told the Committee that no payment would be made until the fields and grounds were up to the specifications required in the contract.

"I've met with the Board of Selectmen and we discussed options, such as using water cannons to water the field after seeding ... we hired an arborist to inspect the trees ... the town spent good money on this project and we need to be sure we are getting what we agreed to," said Jones.

Committee members told Jones that they understood that he was the 'messenger' and appreciated his work in keeping on top of the project. Superintendent Douglas White asked the Committee to be patient and that he would work with Jones and the contractor to assure that everything that could be done to ready the field in the spring would be done.

A lively discussion followed regarding the lack of after-school programs this past September through December. The programs, organized and run by the PTO, paid teachers and a paid organizer, was not offered this past semester.

"As a committee, we're looking to see what, if any changes are needed," said Hartley. Superintendent

White explained that after school, the town recreation committees run programs in Marion and Mattapoisett, while Rochester relies on the PTO.

"It's good to look at our programs and clarify the principal's role, the PTO's role and what is the best way to run it," said Rood.

An after-school program is currently in place for the January through June portion of the school year.

The Committee agreed to form a new committee to look into how the program is organized and how to support it so that it continues to be available to children in the future.

Danni Kleiman was recognized at the meeting for being an outstanding teacher with 'curriculum courage' for her work with students in planning a Shakespearian play each year as an after-school program.

"Ms. Kleiman is a wonderful teacher, supporter and friend to all," said Elise Frangos, Director of Curriculum and Instruction.

In other business, Superintendent White told the Committee that he met with the police chiefs of Mattapoisett, Rochester and Marion in the wake of the Newtown, Conn. tragedy.

"As a result, our policy committee will be looking at what we should be communicating to students and parents and includes drills that we will be conducting on a more regular basis," said White.

White added that the district is looking closely at

Teachers Talk Sippican School Safety

Marion School Committee

By Eric Tripoli

In the wake of the Sandy Hook Elementary School shooting in Newtown, Conn., safety and security took center stage at Wednesday's Marion School Committee meeting, the first of the new year.

"Everybody in this room is entrusted with the safety in and around the Sippican School. It's such a profound tragedy that causes us to think differently about the way we see our own schools and families," said Committee Chairman Brad Gordon.

The December 14, 2012 shooting has prompted countless schools across the nation to review and discuss safety protocols and security measures around their campuses in an effort to help improve those systems in order to prevent future tragedies.

During her report, Sippican School Principal Evelyn Rivet praised the presence of mind of the teachers in the days following the shooting and their focus on helping the students understand the shooting.

"They came in early the next day and they held meetings discussing the best way to deal with this," said Rivet.

The school has also implemented tighter security controls, including individual sign-in and sign-out for guests and a locked classroom door policy. The Marion Fire Department also toured the school offering recommendations for safe hiding places in the event of a similar emergency. According to Rivet's report, the school will be looking into a new double-lock entry system for the front and rear entrances of Sippican School.

"It's been a collaborative effort on the parts of all of us," said Superintendent Doug White. "One of the things we are suggesting is to practice our drills more often, to have involvement from the police department during those drills."

White said that parents would be notified of safety drills ahead of time so that they may be adequately prepared to discuss the rehearsals further with their children, but specific details may be withheld to increase student safety.

"I'll be working with aides for a volunteer system to monitor the entrances. We want it to be an open and inviting place, but we want to have a better handle on knowing who will be in our building," said Principal Rivet. "We'll also be asking to see photo IDs."

She said that they are looking into further security measures that are both cost-efficient and sensible for the school, including special key fobs that would provide certain faculty members entry to the building, as well as colored lanyards to indicate security clearance.

White said that they are continuing to collect thoughts and suggestions from teachers and staff in an effort to bolster current security measures.

Despite the efforts to make district schools safer from such violence, there is always the concern that the environment of the school would be negatively affected by more prominent safety measures.

"We don't want to turn it into a militaristic setting for the kids to learn in," Gordon said. "We want to keep it an open place for the kids."

"As I look at all protocols and all information coming through my office, I feel very comfortable that we're handling things efficiently and effectively around safety and security," said White.

briefly met before the quarterly meeting, where the superintendent offered the first drafts of the proposed FY14 budget. This was the first time the Marion School Committee got a chance to see a complete draft of the proposed budget. White said that he has been meeting with all major department heads in the last few months in preparation for budget discussions.

"There are no significant increases. I think it provides quality. I think it handles the increases of obligations here. It supports our programs sufficiently," White said.

The preliminary budget calls for a modest 2.5 percent increase overall, which was expected during the budget drafting process for FY13. In addition, the new budget reflects three upcoming retirements, which account for about $44,000 of the budget.

The Committee is also looking to increase the overall technology budget. Technology Director Ryan McGee said that he was researching cloud-computing and data storage options for the schools, which would allow for a safer and more secure depository for files.

White also said that some savings could be achieved under the transportation line item. He said they are about to enter the fifth year of a five-year contract with the bus company. He indicated the company planned to drop the rate for the year but did not have a figure on hand.

"We're just looking to finalize that number. We're verifying that as we speak," said White.

The Committee will review the specifics of the budget over the coming weeks to help prepare the final draft, due for approval by the members in March.

The Committee also heard from the Sippican School music director, Hannah Moore, who addressed the group with a petition to consider replacing the sound system in the school's multi-purpose room.

"We have one of the finest multi-purpose rooms in the state," Moore said, explaining that the existing system is inefficient, antiquated and difficult to use.

She has been collecting prospective bids from audio system contractors and said the project could be funded with town money or by private donation.

New Year, New Policies

ORR School Update

By Jessica Correia

In lieu of the New Year, the administration for ORR High School has passed new policies that are effective as of Monday, January 7. In an attempt to embrace the modern teenager's connection to technology, two new policies will integrate cell phones in the school day. Students are now allowed to use their cell phones during lunch. If a student is found using their cell phone during any other time of the day, the usual rules will apply — the phone will go to the Vice Principal and will not be returned until its owner serves a detention.

The other policy concerning cell phone use serves as an exception to the rule. Students will be allowed to use their cell phones in the classroom by teacher discretion. Social networking and texting will not be allowed — when teachers give the go ahead for students to use their cell phones in class, it will only be for further education purposes or if it is to aid in a student presentation. Any violation of the new policy, such as texting or using social networking websites, will be subject to the usual cell phone policy.

Another new policy concerns locker use and scheduling. Passing time will be six minutes long as opposed to the usual four. This longer passing time is paired with a requirement for students to use their lockers and the retraction of students' right to use a backpack in transporting books during the school day.

This is not the whole story. A vast majority of students in the school are seriously opposing the mandatory locker and no backpack policy. Complaints are loud and widespread throughout the school. There are a few different reasons students take issue with the new policy. Senior Salem Hartley was willing to share her personal reasons for disliking the new rule.

"I've used a backpack every day since freshmen year. Adjusting to only being able to bring a binder and two books to class is difficult. There are little things like extra pens, pencils and random little things like that that now you have to buy a little bag for or live without. I think it's silly they are going to change this in the middle of the year after we've done it for over three years," said Hartley.

Many students echo the complaints of inconvenience, as well as increased traffic in the hallways. Senior Joshua Powers is affected by this new traffic.

"It is overwhelming in the hallways now, with everyone racing to their lockers and trying to get to their classes. The already narrow hallways just get narrower," he said.

Students all around the school are voicing their complaints to teachers and each other. Most teachers are rather unsympathetic, many of them remembering their days when they used their lockers. However, most of them will not deny the fact that it has been a long time since they have seen the student body so unified against one thing.

Girls' Basketball Cruises by Wareham

ORR Sports Update

By Michael Kassabian

Having a good girls' basketball program is something of an expectation at Old Rochester. The varsity head coach, Bob Hohne, has over 500 career wins with the Lady Bulldogs, and the squad always seems to consist of some of the most talented female athletes in the school. This year, after losing no seniors from last year's team, the girls are expected to do great things. They proved they have what it takes after winning a decisive game against Wareham, 55-34.

The girls got off to an early start and had an 11-0 lead midway through the first quarter and never gave up the lead. After the first half, the Lady Bulldogs had a 29-14 lead, and after outscoring the Lady Vikings 19-9 in the third quarter, the game seemed to be completely in the Bulldogs' hands.

Sophomore Center Gabby Reuter was the star of the game, scoring a team high of 13 points and recording Squash is more than just a gourd. It's a fast-paced competitive sport enjoyed by people all over the world. Though it may not be as popular as basketball or soccer, its players and fans are fierce and loyal. At Tabor Academy in Marion, the love for the game has been strong for decades.

"I don't care about winning. I care about kids playing because that's how you get better," said Connie Pierce, who heads player development for Tabor Academy's junior varsity women's squash team.

Most of the kids she works with don't come from a background rife with intense, weekly squash lessons.

"Squash courts aren't available to everybody," Pierce said, citing the popularity of sports like tennis and basketball, which tend to get more public space for play than many sports.

Pierce herself was a competitive tennis player before discovering squash. She was living around Manchester, England in the 1970s when a friend invited her to play a game in an old airplane hangar. She's been with the Tabor program since the 1980s, and her colleagues and players lovingly refer to her using nicknames like "Squash Mother" and "Mother Hen."

There is an instantaneous appeal to the game of squash. Small, oval-shaped rackets are used to hit a rubber ball slightly bigger than a golf ball. The players volley back and forth, hitting the ball against the wall opposite their positions.

"Most people, if they do it when they're younger, they play most of their life," said Tabor Academy varsity head coach Will O'Leary. He was a hockey player in his youth who played squash for fun. O'Leary has been coaching for about six years and is in his second year at Tabor.

The program at Tabor is decades old and the original wooden courts are still standing on the campus.

Eric Tripoli
eric@wanderer.com

"We don't usually go in there too often to play because the game has changed so much since then. We call that the dungeon. These are the newer courts," O'Leary said as his players warmed up in the white and plastic boxes at the athletic center on Saturday before a tournament against Phillips Exeter Academy.

Tabor senior and varsity team member Delaney Teceno had never played squash before arriving for her freshman year. Before ninth grade, she'd been a soccer and tennis player, but an injury during her first year at Tabor forced her to quit the soccer team by her junior year.

"My dad had played squash a few times and he recommended I give it a try," Teceno said. She joined the junior varsity team during her freshman year and was hooked.

"I'd never had that. It was something I wanted to get really good at," she said.

She progressed quickly, getting moved to the varsity team by the middle of her sophomore year.

Since she began playing tournaments last year, she has been nationally ranked as the 78th best female player under age 19.

This season, she has her work cut out for her.

"I'm playing girls who are much better than me. A lot of them have been playing all their lives. So far, I'm holding my own," she said.

The thrill of the challenge is shared by the whole team.

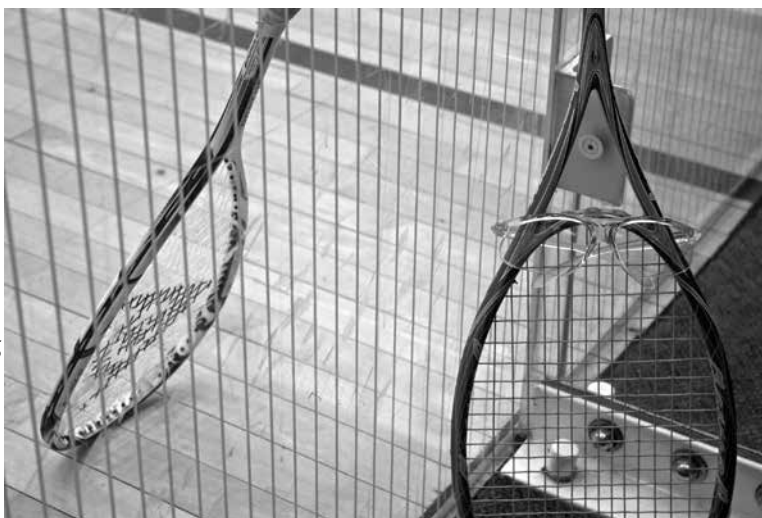

"It's much harder here at the high school level," said freshman varsity player Karina Lazaro. The Brooklyn, N.Y. native has played squash for about five years.

"I find it very interesting. Nobody really knows what it is but it's a great opportunity to play," she said.

Pierce sees it as a learning opportunity as well as a time for fun.

"They go from knowing absolutely nothing to being able to keep the ball in play. It's amazing," she said. She also works with student helpers, who provide assistance to the team in a variety of ways.

"It's great. I can send them to the weight room to work with other players. It gives them leadership and service opportunities. Maybe we're training future coaches," said Pierce.

The boys' team was not as successful against the Vikings, as they lost to the dominant Wareham team 65-41. # MOVIE REVIEW

New West

By Rob Gonsalves
www.robsmovievault.com

Django Unchained*. Starring Jamie Foxx and Christoph Waltz. Directed by Quentin Tarantino. Running time: 164 minutes. MPAA rating: R.

Like most of his other films, Quentin Tarantino's Django Unchained feels like a summing-up, a resuscitation of forgotten subgenres, another thick volume of The Portable Quentin Tarantino — which, given the writer-director's penchant for lengthy movies, isn't quite portable. But that's okay: the time always flies, and Tarantino gives us a lot of movie for our money. Django Unchained is another historical revenge epic on the order of Tarantino's 2009 Inglourious Basterds, in which the insulted and injured get bloody satisfaction; in this case, the wronged party is Django (Jamie Foxx), a slave passing through antebellum Texas. Django encounters a bounty hunter, Dr. King Schultz (Christoph Waltz), and the two men become partners, Django assisting Schultz on various jobs until Schultz decides to help Django rescue his wife Broomhilda (Kerry Washington) from a Mississippi plantation.

Previous Tarantino revengeploitation (Kill Bill, etc.) was set in made-up, stylized worlds, but this movie and Basterds unfold against real-life backdrops of cruelty (and deep collective shame), so Django Unchained has sparked considerable controversy. Some African-Americans take issue with a white filmmaker's using slavery (not to mention "the n-word") so freely in service of a popcorn movie. Others find it empowering, as their ancestors also found blaxploitation cathartic in the '70s. I'll just say that the movie is structured as a spaghetti-western Niebelungen, in which the dragons this Siegfried must slay are slave owners and all the hillbillies and Uncle Toms who enable them. Django's journey brings him to Candieland, an elaborate plantation run by the noxiously self-satisfied Calvin Candie (Leonardo DiCaprio). Hanging on his master Calvin's every casually racist word like Gollum is house negro Stephen (Samuel L. Jackson), who can tell straight away that Django and Schultz aren't really there to buy "the right nigger" for mandingo fighting.

Trying to catch Broomhilda in a lie, Stephen asks her why he's scaring her. "Because you're scary," she replies, and indeed he is; Jackson atones for many easy Samuel L. Jackson Auto-Pilot performances with a creepy, cobra-like menace. Tarantino has always been an actor's director, evident here from so many people willing to drop in for tiny roles; at times the movie is an anthology of character actors from exploitation or TV. Foxx's Django is iconic and stoic except where his beloved Broomhilda is concerned, while Waltz's Schultz, familiar with violence up to a point, is gradually sickened by seeing firsthand the ruthless machinery of the slave economy. DiCaprio doesn't overdo Candie's sadism; in fact, in order to be sadistic you have to have some awareness that what you're doing is wrong, and Candie, born into his position, sees nothing evil in it. It's the water he's always swum in. Someone like Stephen, who should see the evil but overlooks it out of expedience, is far more treacherous.

Starting with Kill Bill, Tarantino became a born-again action director, and the many shoot-outs here are staged with over-the-top gusto, with blood spurting and misting and puddling. When we're supposed to enjoy the brutality, we do; when we're not (say, when Candie unleashes dogs on an escaped slave), we don't. Tarantino's use of violence here seems fair and organic: If you profit from human misery, your death will be a joke to energize the audience. Tarantino's great theme, hooking into his preoccupation with revenge sagas over the last decade, has always been "Actions have consequences." When this is applied to America's guilty past, Django Unchained comes to feel like an act of radicalism, which connects it to Tarantino's obvious influences here, the sardonically political spaghetti westerns of Sergio Corbucci (The Great Silence and the original Django).

Other than showing off the first Django (Franco Nero) in a cameo, Tarantino's Django shares no particular plot overlap with Corbucci's, any more than his Inglourious Basterds cribbed its narrative from Enzo Castellari's. The soundtrack is gratifyingly eclectic and defiantly anachronistic; Ennio Morricone and Jerry Goldsmith consort uneasily with Rick Ross and Jim Croce, and somehow it all works. As always, Tarantino is like a kid playing you his favorite albums and movie clips, but as he's gotten older, with this and Basterds, he seems to have concluded that all his passion and enthusiasm should be put to use for grindhouse-history lessons — that is, history as seen through the filter of grindhouse, not the history of grindhouse, though it's that too. The movie takes its time and stretches its legs and lets people reveal character through monologues. It also knows when to blow people sky-high for a laugh and when to step back in revulsion when other people who don't deserve it are butchered. The tension between the two forms of violence may be the key to the movie's controversy, but it also makes Django Unchained the season's most vital filmmaking, bringing all of cinema's manipulative possibilities to bear on a cracking good tale.

Garden Club of Buzzards Bay

The Garden Club of Buzzards Bay is now accepting applications for its 2013 grants program. The club funds approximately $3,000 annually, divided among several non-profits in the South Coast area for projects promoting civic beautification, conservation, garden scholarship and sustainable agriculture.

Funds for the grant program come from proceeds of the popular GCBB plant sale held every May which features plants propagated by club members at the Rotch Jones Duff House greenhouse, which the club maintains. In the past, grants have funded community garden programs at several schools throughout the area, as well as the purchase of plant materials for the Boys and Girls Club, Dartmouth Parks, Fort Rodman, the New Bedford Art Museum, Buttonwood Zoo, Westport River Watershed Alliance, Mattapoisett Land Trust and others.

The mission of the Garden Club of Buzzards Bay is to stimulate the knowledge and love of gardening through education in development of gardens, their design, management and culture and to restore, improve and protect the environment through education, programs and activities in the field of conservation, horticulture and civic improvement.

Application forms are available on the club's website, www.gardenclubbuzzardsbay.org, or by contacting Carolyn Willard at 508-999-3740.

Applicants should include a copy of the IRS tax-exempt status letter and the organization's mission statement. The application deadline is Friday, February 8.

SHS Debuts Bird Island Exhibit

The Sippican Historical Society Museum has recently unveiled its special exhibit on Bird Island. The exhibit documents the changes that have taken place over time on the Island, which sits prominently at the entrance to Sippican Harbor. The lighthouse itself was built in 1819 and closed in 1933. This postcard shows the facility before it was ravaged by the Hurricane of 1938. The public is welcome to view the special exhibit, as well as the Society's permanent collections, during the Museum's normal operating hours: Tuesday through Friday, from 9:00 am to 2:00 pm, and Saturday, from 9:00 am to 1:00 pm. Admission is free. For more information, please call 508-748-1116.

Sippican School sixth-grader, Julia Winters, helped organize and will take part in a special assembly on January 10, put on by King Arthur Flour company. The commodity manufacturer will educate local students about the science and math behind baking bread and will provide the students with baking kits so they can make two loaves at home: one for their families, and one to be given out to a local community out-reach program. On January 1, 2013, Mattapoisett Town Beach played host to a New Year's polar plunge fundraiser. The event, which attracted over 400 people, raised money to benefit BAM Foundation, Inc., a New Bedford non-profit which donates money to South Coast families dealing with members who have cancer. The Huggins family of Mattapoisett received such a donation while husband and father, William, was in treatment for cancer in his colon and liver. The family organized the plunge as a way to say thank you to BAM Foundation for their financial assistance. Photo by Eric Tripoli.

On Saturday, January 4, 2013, Tabor Academy hosted Phillips Exeter Academy in a women's junior varsity and varsity squash tournament. The Tabor team, which has almost 40 players, had a 1-2 record going into Saturday's competition. - Café Parlez's selection for January is Half Broken Things, by Morag Joss. Jean is a house-sitter at the end of a dreary career. Steph is nine months pregnant and on the run. And Michael is a thief. These three reluctant, damaged loners have come together at a secluded country manor. Living off the manor's riches, tending its grounds, they leave the outside world far behind and build a happiness long denied them. Until the first unexpected visitor arrives, igniting a chain reaction that is both spellbinding and disastrous. Book group member Judy Besse recommended this book. We will be discussing it on Thursday, January 31 at 6:30 pm.

- Just the Facts, the nonfiction book discussion group, will be reading The Memory Palace, by Mira Bartok. It is a poignant observation about the relationship between Mira, her sister and their mentally ill mother. Norma Herr, beautiful, talented and intelligent, suffers from schizophrenia and is obsessed with Nazis and with fear for her daughters. When the girls left for college, the harassment escalated until a traumatic encounter that drove the sisters to change their names and cease all contact with their mother in order to stay safe. ## SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Shutting people out to avoid distractions, even under a deadline, can cause hurt feelings. Instead, return calls and emails, and explain why you need a zone of privacy for now.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Although your keen Bull's eyes usually can discern what's fact from what's faux, that upcoming decision will need really solid data before you can risk a commitment.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) As your confidence grows, you should be able to work toward your goals with more enthusiasm. Open your mind to suggestions. Some of them might even work for you.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Reconnecting with someone from your past stirs up that old sense of adventure. But before you do anything else, be sure to get answers to those still-linger-ing questions.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Some people might resent the way you plan to resolve a difficult situation. But your commitment to making tough but fair decisions soon wins you their respect and support.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Mixed signals could be causing that vexing work-place problem. Before you choose to leave the project, ask for a meeting so you can get things out in the open.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Your good intentions could backfire if you're not careful with other people's feelings. Try using persuasion, not pressure, to get others to see your side of the situation.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Your dedication to finishing the task at hand is laud-able. But be careful not to overdo the midnight oil bit. Take time for relaxation with someone very special.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Although your intuition will help you make some tough choices in the first half of the month, you'll need more facts to back up your actions later on.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) All that hard work and research in the workplace finally pays off as you hoped it would. Ignore comments from jealous types who are out to get the Goat riled up.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) An unfair decision creates unnecessary problems. But avoid anger and move carefully as you work this out. Expect to get support from an unlikely source.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A fuzzy financial vista persists until midmonth, when things begin to clear up. You'll also gain a bet-ter perspective on how to handle those pesky personal problems.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a wonderful way of being there for those who need your help in difficult times.

context or significance. This month's selection is Citizen Kane, the 1941 American drama directed by and starring Orson Welles.

Welles' first feature film, Citizen Kane was nominated for Academy Awards in nine categories and was voted the greatest film of all time in five consecutive Sight & Sound's critics' polls. The classic movie examines the life and legacy of Charles Foster Kane (played by Welles), a character reportedly based in part on a trio of tycoons: William Randolph Hearst, Samuel Insull and Harold McCormick.

Classic Film Friday presentations are held at the Marion Music Hall (164 Front Street) and are offered free of charge to the public. Films begin at 7:00 pm and refreshments are available. For more information, contact the Sippican Historical Society at 508-748-1116.

Gateway Youth Hockey Wrap Up

• Mites 1 – It was a hockey-filled weekend for the Mite 1 team which saw a ton of ice time during Friday and Saturday. After trouncing their first opponent 7 – 0, the Mite 1 team advanced to the championship game of the 2nd Annual Gateway Winter Classic at Tabor Academy. The championship game was a nail-biter that they lost by one point in something not often seen at the Mite level – a shoot-out! The team left that game and zoomed down to South Dennis where they faced the Waves. The Mite 1 team rallied back from the emotional loss by scoring early and often on the Waves, including a time when Juni Suarez won the face-off, skirted around the defense, and put the puck in the back of the net. Meghan Craig earned the shut-out in this game.

• Squirts 1 – In what was supposed to be a weekend off, the Ice Wolves ended up winning the Championship of the 2nd Annual Gateway Winter Classic. They won their first game 4 – 1 against the Boston Bandits, Quirino doCanto scoring 3 goals and Chris Gauvin scoring 1. In the second game against the Canal Sharks, the Ice Wolves won 8 – 0. Both Jack Martins and Julia Elicier netted hat tricks and Seth Tomasik and Elsie Buckley had a goal each. In the Championship Game, it was a rematch against the Boston Bandits. Once again, the Ice Wolves prevailed with a 5 – 3 victory over the highly touted Bandits team. Quirino doCanto had another hat trick and Tyler Lovendale rounded out the scoring with 2 goals himself. It was a great win for the Ice Wolves, but an even bigger win for the Gateway Youth Hockey Program.

• Squirts 2 – The Gateway Sharks had plenty of hockey this weekend and didn't disappoint the fans. The Sharks played two Winter Classic Tournament games and split the pair of games with one win and one loss. The win against the Canal Sharks was a well-played competitive game with goals by Danny Flynn and Jack Martins.

The two Cape & Islands league games were against the Dennis Yarmouth Waves and the Dennis Yarmouth Dolphins. The often-dominant Waves earned a compelling 5 – 0 victory against the Sharks, but once again, our team remained composed and played hard to the bitter end. The fourth and final game of the weekend, against the Dolphins, resulted in a 2 – 0 win for Gateway with a first period goal by Stephen Old and a third period goal by Jack Martins. Goalie Thomas Galavotti earned the shut-out and was supported by the entire team who played a great game of hockey with excellent positioning and aggressive fighting for the puck.

• Peewees – The Gateway Gladiators got their only goal of Sunday's game from Zack Lovendale, as the home team finished 2012 with a 6 – 1 loss to the Lower Cape Coyote (Fancy) team. Both Gladiator goalies had a tough time protecting the top corners of the net from Coyote snipers. Though the Gladiators won many individual battles for possession of the puck, their skaters were not able to manage many shots of their own.

• Bantams – The Gateway Bantams kept the winning streak alive as they defeated Barnstable on Saturday by the score of 4 – 2. Gateway took a quick lead early with a great pass from Alex Atkinson to Brady Smith, who let it rip and got it by the Barnstable goaltender. A.J. Bridges was seeing some action in net from Barnstable and had some great saves. Gateway went up another goal as Mat St. John took one away from a Barnstable forward heading to the net and took it all the way down the ice to bring Gateway up by two goals.

Will Paling was fighting hard digging out the puck in the opponent end and finally managed to tuck one by the goalie to make it three goals for Gateway. Barnstable put in two power-play goals, but again it was Mat St. John maneuvering through many red Barnstable shirts to take it down the ice again and dump it in the net to give Gateway the lead and win. Tegan Andre replaced A.J. Bridges midway in net and was also outstanding.

• Middle School – The Wareham Vikings were victorious versus Walpole on Friday, December 28 at Rayham CDL. Mike Houdlette took control of the game early with a goal on a breakaway to start the first period. Strong Wareham defense and outstanding goaltending from Chase Cunningham kept Walpole out of the net. Sean Kelso had a goal to finish out the period with assists from Matt Maloney and Kaitlyn Kelley.

Houdlette started off the second period again with a goal and an assist from Will Paling. The Vikings kept up the good work, and midway through the second period, Cunningham ended his shift with a shut-out. In a nearly penalty-free game, the Vikings kept up a steady assault on Walpole. Connor Kelley scored with just three seconds left to end the second, bringing the score to 4 – 0.

At the beginning of the third period, Walpole snuck one by goalie Teaghin Andre to get on the board,

I Found the Aardvark!

Each week, hidden somewhere in the pages of The Wanderer is a tiny drawing of an aardvark. The little guy you are looking for looks exactly like the one pictured above (but don't put down this page as your answer, there's another one hidden somewhere in this issue).

Once you find the aardvark you can submit your answer online and if you are right you will get Aardvark Points! You can then use these points to get cool Aardvark Prizes! Each time you find the Aardvark you will also be entered in our monthly drawing for other cool Aardvark Prizes. If you would like to enter the monthly drawing by mail, send your name, address and phone number along with the issue date and page number you found him in to: Wanderer - I Found the Aardvark, P.O. Box 102, Mattapoisett, MA 02739. Entries by mail will not be eligible for Aardvark Points.

To enter visit: www.wanderer.com and Click on I Found the Aardvark
In the December 27, 2012 issue the Aardvark was on page 25!
